

Ultra-Vision

formulated by John W Jones, MD, MPH

Preserve your windows on the world. Of all our senses, vision has to be one of the most cherished gifts. With our eyes we see the wonders of creation. We see the people we love. Our peripheral vision protects us from as-yet-unseen dangers. Vision is nothing short of miraculous.

Unfortunately, our eyes are susceptible to degenerative conditions; conditions like cataracts and macular degeneration that diminish or altogether ruin our vision. What if you could protect the vision you have now; prevent or greatly postpone damage to your vision? What if you already have a vision problem? Wouldn't it be a blessing to reverse the degenerative process?

Our Ultra-Vision supplement contains the vital nutrients to support your eyesight.

- our Zeaxanthin is the 3R 3'R Chiral isomer that is on the GRAS list.
- It helps delay age related diseases of the eye
- It provides the essential xanthophylls

Zeaxanthin in Ultra-Vision:

Our Zeaxanthin is the 3R 3'R Chiral isomer that occurs naturally and has been proven to be the most bioavailable. Non-dietary, synthesized forms are not found in the food supply and have a lower bioavailability. These variant forms are not the same physically or functionally. They act differently in the eye, and are commonly mislabeled (from the FDA's point of view), as zeaxanthin. The only way to be sure that the product contains the natural 3R 3'R zeaxanthin is to request a copy of the Chiral analysis.

Why Use Ultra-Vision?

Ultra-Vision is designed to be used as part of the protocol "Vision Preservation and Support". The eyes are specialized organs, they exist in the body and require all the nutrients needed by the rest of the body. It is important to provide a good, broad spectrum multi vitamin mineral supplement like Ultra-Vites, and a complete essential fatty acid like Ultra Omega-Linic that supplies eicosapentaenoic acid (EPA), docosahexaenoic acid (DHA), gamma linolenic acid (GLA) and stearidonic acid (SDA). Anti oxidants like Vitamin E, Vitamin C and selenium play important roles. Ultra-Vites supplies minerals like zinc and magnesium, which are necessary for the thousands of chemical reactions that occur in the retina.

The macular pigment consists mostly of the xanthophylls Lutein and Zeaxanthin which must be supplemented because they cannot be synthesized in mammals.

What the ingredients in Ultra-Vision Do?

The primary oxygen provider, Vitamin C, is known to promote healing. Abrasions of the cornea, for instance, which are common to contact lens wearers, heal faster if there is an adequate amount of Vitamin C in the diet. Vitamin C has been shown to lower interocular pressure. Long term use of vitamin C, Lutein and Zeaxanthin has been associated with lower incidence and progression of cataracts. A useful strategy for prevention may target young adults. At any age, the sooner this support begins the more likely one is to successfully avert age related eye diseases.

For instance, a growing body of evidence shows a link between the xanthophylls (lutein and zeaxanthin) and higher levels of Macular Pigment Optical Density (MPOD). The higher the levels of these xanthophylls, the less risk there is for age related eye diseases like age-related macular degeneration (AMD).

If you have early stages of (or a family history of) vision problems, please see my protocol "Vision Preservation & Support". If you have age related vision problems see my protocol "Age Related Eye Disease".
